THE Kessler COLLECTION®

Oriental Weavers Hospitality is proud to collaborate with the Kessler Collection on much of their bespoke and visionary work, across the United States of America.

The 4.5acre, $350 million waterfront redevelopment of Plant Riverside in Savannah GA, is a mixed-use entertainment district, with restaurants, live music, entertainment, a park and retail all anchored by a 419 room JW Marriott Hotel.

The luxury hotel offers three different concepts for guests to experience, highlighted by the complete transformation of the circa 1912 powerplant.

Diana Kessler, Creative Director the Kessler Collection: "...right before construction started, I was standing in the Generator Hall looking down to the basement, I noticed a puddle of water that had gorgeous tones of deep emerald in it with a reflection of the Generator Hall skylight above. I took a picture of it and thought this would be a stunning carpet pattern... I truly enjoyed collaborating with the creative team at Oriental Weavers Hospitality. They are very skilled at taking my vision and collaborating on a design that can be woven into carpet."

Gavin McDowell, Global Design Director for Oriental Weavers Hospitality.

"In woven Axminster, our designers listened to Diana, creating unique textural design effects in non-repeating formations. Understanding the craft of designing in this medium, we added our signature high luster yarn for added detailing, helping to curate an authentic narrative, bringing Diana's vision to life.

Diana Kessler, "One of the smoke stacks penetrates through the elevator lobbies in the Power Plant building. In that space I took the reflection of the Generator Hall skylight and layered that on top of the moving water pattern. We are really pleased with how that turned out, a work of art in itself".
